

DSBN cares about student futures

We at the Niagara News would like to congratulate the person who decided to put together a contest for students in various departments like carpentry, landscaping, home building, architecture and many more. There are too many students graduating and not knowing what to do with their lives.

By making a competition out of the various career choices, the students will not only be kept interested in the things they possibly wish to pursue when they go on to graduate, but it also gives them a sense of pride, knowing that what they hope to do will be a good choice because they themselves are good at it.

Also. By competing in the things they love, students learn new things that their competition may teach them.

This will help them do better.

The DSBN is wise to involve themselves more into the lives of its students. By holding these kinds of competitions, they ensure that when students graduate, they will have a initiative that will drive them to become productive members of society. There is a great need for skilled people in Canada, especially here in St. Catharines. The DSBN seems to care about that.
